

From the Principal's Desk

"The greatest glory in living lies not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall."

- Nelson Mandela

As we move into the heart of the academic year, I want to take a moment to reflect on the busy, productive months of September and October and celebrate the wonderful energy that defines our students and the school community.

September was a month that truly exemplified the spirit of resilience and focused effort, culminating in the Half Yearly Examinations. We are incredibly proud of how our students applied themselves, tackling their studies with commitment and determination. These examinations are not simply a measure of academic knowledge; they are a vital opportunity for students to practice discipline, manage pressure, and embody the inner strength that Nelson Mandela speaks of—the courage to face a difficult task and keep moving forward.

October brought the vibrant and much-deserved celebrations of Dussehra. To celebrate the contributions and In honour of our elders, we celebrated Grandparents' Day, which saw a massive attendance of our elders. This was followed by the vibrant celebrations of Diwali, where the students showcased their skills in making beautiful and meaningful rangolis for the occasion and celebrated the victory of Good over evil.

Beyond the festivals, our commitment to social responsibility shone brightly with the organization of our celebrated donation drive, "Aparigraha 2.0." This community program, focused on donation amongst the lesser privileged, was a powerful reminder of the values of compassion and giving that we instill in our students.

On the auspicious day of 25th October, the school was buzzing with excitement as we hosted our Inaugural Alumni Meet, a successful event of reconnect which saw a large turnout of our ex-students. It was a deeply nostalgic occasion as our alumni refreshed cherished memories of their school days, recounting sweet mischiefs and memorable classroom moments. The day was filled with heartfelt reunions as they visited their erstwhile classrooms and wandered the familiar grounds of the playground. Our former students generously shared their diverse professional and life experiences, offering inspiration and perspective to all.

Let us continue to be inspired by the lessons learned in the classroom and during the festivals, approaching every new day with dedication, curiosity, and a positive outlook.

The Power of Play in Early Childhood Learning

Play is not just a way for children to pass time—it is their most natural and effective form of learning. Through play, children explore the world around them, experiment with ideas, and develop essential skills like problem-solving, communication, and cooperation. Whether it's building with blocks, role-playing in a pretend shop, or engaging in outdoor games, play stimulates both creativity and critical thinking. It also fosters emotional growth by helping children express feelings and navigate social interactions. As teachers, we can make learning joyful by integrating structured and free play into our lessons. A classroom that encourages play is a classroom that nurtures curiosity, imagination, and lifelong learning..

PARENT'S CORNER

Developing Emotional Intelligence in Children

In today's world, academic success alone is not enough — children also need Emotional Intelligence (EI) to build confidence, empathy, and healthy relationships. Emotional Intelligence helps children understand their feelings, manage emotions wisely, and connect with others respectfully. Together, parents, teachers, and students can play a powerful role in nurturing this essential life skill.

For Students

- Learn to recognize and name your emotions — happiness, anger, fear, or excitement.
- Practice self-control — pause, breathe, and think before reacting.
- Show kindness and empathy to classmates and friends.
- Express feelings politely instead of shouting or staying silent.
- Be open to feedback and learn from experiences, both good and bad.

For Parents

- Listen with patience when your child shares feelings — even small issues matter to them.
- Encourage daily talks about emotions, friendships, and challenges.
- Model calmness — show your child how to handle stress and anger positively. Appreciate emotional honesty and effort, not just results.
- Guide them to resolve conflicts peacefully and think from others' perspectives.

PARENT'S CORNER

For Teachers

- Create a safe and caring classroom where every student feels valued.
- Teach children to identify and name emotions during lessons and discussions.
- Use group projects and reflection activities to build empathy and teamwork.

Offer support and encouragement to students facing emotional challenges.

- Foster a positive classroom culture where respect, cooperation, and kindness are celebrated.

Together We Grow!*

By working hand in hand, parents, teachers, and students can create a nurturing environment that helps children understand their emotions and use them as strengths — leading to confident, compassionate, and emotionally balanced young minds.
